CAMINETTI LOSES IN HIGHEST COURT

Washington, June 14.—F. Drew Caminetti lost his fight Monday in the supreme court for a review of his conviction in the federal court at San Francisco on charges of violating the Mann white slave law. The court denied the application without opinion.

Caminetti, who is the son of A. Caminetti, commissioner general of immigration, was found guilty with Maury I. Diggs of Sacramento of transporting two girls from Sacramento, Cal., to Reno, Nev.

This was the first case under the Mann law to reach the supreme court, in which the commercial element was absent. The review was asked on the ground that the law is not applicable to cases in which only immorality is involved, and that further, if it is applicable, it is unconstitutional.

Upon the court's announcement counsel asked for a reconsideration of the refusal to review the Caminetti case and applied for a review of Diggs' conviction. Diggs was sentenced to two years' imprisonment and a fine of $2,000.

ANTI-CATHOLICISM EXPLAINED.

Investigators Named by Knights of Columbus.

Chicago, Ill., June 14.—Two beliefs which are declared to have aroused prejudice against Catholics and the Catholic church, it was announced tonight, have been unearthed by investigators for the special commission appointed a year ago by the supreme council of the Knights of Columbus to investigate causes of anti-Catholic propaganda. These beliefs will be discussed by the commission when it meets here tomorrow for final consideration of its report, which will be made at the forthcoming session at Seattle.

The investigators reported that antagonism had been found because of the attitude which many persons believed the Catholics maintained toward public schools. Another cause found was the general belief that Catholics owed civil allegiance to papal authority.

A statement made by the commission tonight through P. H. Callahan of Louisville denied that Catholics ever had attempted to control the schools.

"They never will engage in any such attempt," the statement continued. "They believe that religious education should be given the young, but rather than interfere with the public schools they not only pay their own proportion of public taxes, but also support their own schools."

Discussing the charge of civil allegiance to papal authority the statement called attention to the variety of political beliefs held by individual Catholics. "It is well known that the Catholic voters of the country are divided in their political allegiance," the statement concludes. "It is equally well known that the Catholic priests do not preach political sermons. The political convictions of the citizens are his own and every Catholic understands this."

Huck Finn is Ninety.
B. F. Finn, the original Huckleberry Finn of Mark Twain's books, has just celebrated his ninetieth birthday at his ranch on the McKenzie river, near here, and is hale and hearty. He has a vivid recollection of Mark Twain, with whom he worked on a Mississippi steamboat, but says Twain really didn't get much from Huckleberry Finn except the name. "We called Clemens Charley in those days," said Finn. "He and I both worked on the steamer Shotwell, running out of St. Louis. I was nicknamed 'Huckleberry' and Clemens seemed to take a fancy to the name. Tom Sawyer was my chum, but I was well known before Clemens knew me." Finn has lived on the McKenzie river here for forty years past, and seldom emerges from his retreat.—Portland Oregonian.

LOST-REWARD

To the Public:

Forty years ago the half of a coin as shown in the illustration was lost or stolen in Gretchhoffen. This Broken Coin is of great value, not for the metal which it contains, but, together with the other half, it is the key to a secret of vast importance.

The Broken Coin here shown was traced by detectives to the mate of a schooner, the Marie Belle, who pawned it in London in 1878. It was then traced to New York and from there carried by an Armenian peddler to Chicago.

It has lately been traced to this city. Here the trail ends. Someone has this Broken Coin. It may be hidden in an out-of-the-way place—possibly in an old coin collection.

Look everywhere for the Broken Coin. If you find it you will be rewarded. If you can give any information as to its whereabouts, and it is located through your information, you will receive a large reward. Search now! Look everywhere! Report any clue to the M. P. Editor of this newspaper who will immediately take up the matter with Carlos von Kapen, Consul General for Gretchhoffen, N. Y. City.

The Broken Coin is 1 1/2 inches in diameter, copper color. Above is a photograph of the one side. Identification can easily be made with illustration. The reverse side contains a portion of a strange inscription in Latin.
